Document A

This is an edited extract from the report (May 1946) of the Cabinet Mission, a delegation of cabinet ministers which had been sent from London to investigate the Indian problem.

We have decided that immediate arrangements should be made whereby Indians may decide the future constitution of India.

We have endeavoured to be just to the smaller, as well as the larger, sections of the people; and to recommend a solution which will lead to a practical way of governing the India of the future, and will give a sound basis for defence, and a good opportunity for progress in the social, political and economic field.

We also examined, closely and impartially, the possibility of a partition of India. We were greatly impressed by the very genuine and acute anxiety of the Muslims lest they should find themselves subjected to a perpetual Hindu-majority rule. This feeling has become so strong and widespread among the Muslims that it cannot be allayed by mere paper safeguards.

If there is to be internal peace in India, it must be secured by measures which will assure to the Muslims a control of all matters vital to their culture, religion and economic and other interests.

Document B

This cartoon from The Daily Mail, 14th May 1946, comments on the attempts of Sir Stafford Cripps, of the Cabinet Mission, to bring about agreement between the Indian leaders Jinnah (“Moslem”) and Gandhi (in the loincloth).
